History

The Bishop Arts District is located immediately southwest of downtown Dallas with easy accessibility to I-30 and I-35. The Bishop Arts District is rich in history, and was the site of Dallas' busiest trolley stop in the 1930's. The Bishop Arts revitalization has brought a historical shopping district full of a unique and eclectic group of retail and restaurants. It is one of Dallas' unique historic neighborhoods and an experiential destination for people all across DFW.

The Approach

BUILDING INNOVATIVE PLACES.

Crescent Communities' approach to multifamily/mixed-use development focuses on connecting people to their communities and making a difference in their lives. Their projects lead the market in location, offerings and service, as they always strive to create strong connections within the surrounding communities.

In this case, Crescent Communities acquired 7 acres on three adjacent blocks and coordinated a new walkable district that will include brownstone-style townhomes, Central Market, luxury apartments, and 23,000 SF of shops and restaurants.

“Bishop Arts Can Be a Model for Southern Dallas Development”

“[Bishop Arts’] evolution over the last 30 years has a lot to teach us about what makes a successful neighborhood and where investment is best made. Applying what we’ve learned in Bishop Arts to small redevelopments in the city’s south would bring amenities and job opportunities closer to where people live so they don’t have to spend half a paycheck to own a car and drive to Far North Dallas.

5 Bishop Arts Restaurants on Eater 38 List - Fall 2018

Dallas' restaurant scene's growth is still explosive, and as such, there are more options than ever for the city's diners. The Eater 38 includes restaurants that serve up consistently solid fare across a variety of cuisines, price points, vibes, and settings. Consider it a restaurant bucket list for Dallas diners, ranging from low-key delis to upscale steakhouses and excellent taquerias.

“Art, Food and Shops Away From the Super-Size Crowds”

“Travelers who tend to put Dallas at the bottom of their Texas bucket list probably haven’t been to the Bishop Arts district, where cyclists outnumber drivers, pedestrians stroll past historic buildings and the words “local,” “artisan” and “crafted” slip their way into conversations over dinners that begin with regionally grown greens and fine wines.”
