Mixed Use Mega Project Planned for Downtown Lawrenceville

The development, which will go up on about 35 acres just south of the Gwinnett County seat's downtown square, is slated to include about 15,000 square feet of commercial space in addition to apartments, townhomes, detached homes and "age-targeted" residences.

Officials believe the $200 million project is the largest redevelopment project in Gwinnett County, if not all of suburban Atlanta. The new renderings — which can be seen below — were released by developer Novare Group during a Monday evening meeting of the Lawrenceville planning commission.

430 W. Pike Street is approximately 1 mile NE of this project.

Mixed Use Mega Project Planned for Downtown Lawrenceville

A clearer timeline for the construction of a \$200 million megaproject near downtown Lawrenceville has emerged.

City of Lawrenceville spokesman Lisa Sherman told The Atlanta Journal-Constitution that demolition work to pave the way for the so-called South Lawn project — which will include retail and greenspace in addition to more than 600 residential units — is now slated to begin in late summer.

Sherman said the multifamily housing component closest to the Lawrenceville Lawn park, which is just north of the 32-acre development site, will be the first phase of the project to go up. Streetscaping and retail offerings along nearby Clayton Street were scheduled to come next.

“The rest of the development will be done in phases over the next three to five years,” Sherman said.

All told, the project from George Berkow Inc. and Novare Group is slated to include “urban-style, three- and four-story apartments and townhomes,” single-family homes and about 100 “age-targeted” residences, in addition to about 15,000 square feet of retail space and a new “town green.”

The project also involves moving the city’s public utility operations, which were based on the site, to a new building on W. Pike Street. Existing affordable housing units on the South Lawn site are being demolished after new ones are built nearby.

Gwinnett County Transportation Press Release

For one of the first times since its inception in 2001, Gwinnett County Transit has initiated a Comprehensive Transit Development Plan to review all fixed route and paratransit services. The Connect Gwinnett planning team has developed draft recommendations for short-, medium- and long-term plans for identified current and future funding sources. In order to vet these plans through a broad community outreach effort, the team has held public open houses across the county and is now conducting an online survey and a scientifically valid phone survey.

Take the 10-minute Gwinnett County Transit survey about the future of public transportation in Gwinnett. Information provided will help the Connect Gwinnett planning team understand the needs of Gwinnett residents and business owners.
