LOCATION, LOCATION, LOCATION

Greater Cincinnati is home to headquarters for more Fortune® companies per capita than New York, Chicago or L.A. The area supports more than 450 foreign-owned businesses and has a thriving entrepreneur ecosystem. Baldwin 600 is strategically positioned within a 600-mile radius of over half of the nation's population, purchasing power and manufacturing operations.

Cincinnati is a pro-business city featuring a long list of business-friendly resources for companies of all sizes. For example, the Regional Economic Development Initiative (REDI) Cincinnati is the go-to resource for companies locating or expanding in the Greater Cincinnati footprint. REDI helps companies connect with funding sources and incentive programs, market research, including demographic data, workforce analysis and customized data requests and support for international companies opening a first or next U.S. location. JobsOhio, a private, nonprofit corporation promotes job creation and economic development for Ohio.

Top talent continues to be one of the main reasons businesses move to the region long-term. More than 200,000 graduates enter the workforce annually from 300+ colleges and universities within a 200-mile radius of our region. Many of Greater Cincinnati colleges and universities offer workforce development and cooperative learning programs. The region provides a thriving IT industry with 300,000 IT and business process employees, plus 45+ major employers with an IT component or focus.
