AUBURN HILLS / OAKLAND COUNTY

Located 30 miles north of downtown Detroit, in the heart of Oakland County, Auburn Hills is one of the fastest growing cities in southeast Michigan. The city follows the course of Interstate 75 and is home to a prosperous business community. Oakland University has long been a significant part of the local economy. Most notably, the presence of Chrysler's Headquarters and Tech Center has drawn numerous auto companies and suppliers to the area following its completion. The area at Auburn and Squirrel roads has been rebuilt into "Auburn Hills Village Center", with a redesigned streetscape to spur development and activity in the area, today known as Downtown Auburn Hills. Auburn Hills is also home to Great Lakes Crossing shopping mall, with 185 stores and 1.4 million square feet of retail space.

Auburn Hills' location offers easy highway access to major urban centers across the state, as well as local auto manufacturers and suppliers, making it an attractive location for businesses to plant their roots. The area is home to approximately 80,000 daily workers. Companies such as GKN Driveline, Faurecia, Volkswagen/Audi have their North American Headquarters in Auburn Hills. The city is also home to BorgWarner, Guardian Industries, TI Automotive, as well as a litany of OEMs.

As the Detroit area and Southeast Michigan as a whole continues its resurgence, Auburn Hills will continue to be a focal point for the business and the auto industry. Vacancy rates continue to drop across all asset classes, encouraging new build to suit and speculative construction. As economic growth carries on, the city will continue to position itself as a premier regional destination for business, entertainment and development.
