

HUNTINGTON

90

Where visionary businesses converge

What if all roads led to you?

Huntington 90 is located at a dynamic convergence of major highways, international airports, urban centers and opportunity. The property sits proudly along I-90, one of Illinois' most traveled highways, and is prominently displayed to over 140,000 commuters a day.

The 70-acre campus resides within the pro-business Village of Hoffman Estates, only thirty minutes from Chicago, the nation's third largest urban economy. The entire area is connected to the greater global/international business world through its proximity to the O'Hare and Rockford International airports.

Visionary businesses require connectivity, and Huntington 90 delivers that need on all fronts.

Where does business meet balance?

Huntington 90 is tightly woven into layers of community that bring your business great value and balance. The park itself is a growing corporate community of vision-focused industry leaders that inspire and even collaborate with each other. The areas surrounding the park are home to an impressive roster of corporations, which have been drawn to the location for its wealth of amenities.

The living communities neighboring the property afford a rich and diverse lifestyle for executives and employees alike. Some of Chicago's most highly educated and prosperous suburbs are adjacent to H-90.

These pro-business villages and towns are home to exceptional schools and housing. The available shopping, dining, recreation and golf courses make it an ideal location for a growing company that seeks to recruit, entertain and provide life balance.
